Why this matters for providers

The summit is a valuable resource for staying up to date on trends, challenges, and solutions that impact our work in behavioral health. Providers can expect presentations from regional experts, opportunities to learn about new tools and resources, and networking with others committed to improving outcomes for people affected by substance use disorders.

Sponsorship & exhibitor opportunities

Organizations can also participate as sponsors or exhibitors to share programs, services, or research with a broad audience of professionals. Details are available through the summit website.
